It is our goal to have educational technical presentations to improve the understanding of the science of coatings. We are trying to challenge traditional methods of formulation as well as solve conventional issues that have plagued formulators utilizing new technologies and approaches. It is also our goal to offer educational tools to assist you with improving coatings performance and functionality beyond traditional expectations. We anticipate seeing a company logo on the title and acknowledgement slides. However, we do not expect the presentations to be a platform for new proprietary product introductions, specific trade name promotions, or a lengthy commercial for the speaker's employer. Please keep this in mind when submitting your presentation.
